

Conference Objectives

Often Trainers, Teachers, Parents and even Department Managers would lament "How is it that some people simply have a way with people. In a few words, and almost effortlessly, they seem to be able to influence another person and get things done" How did they do it ?

Are there ways to Teaching More with Less effort ?

This Conference will have 7 Education Experts, each with years of experience & research in Learning Needs and Thinking Styles. They will present many important practical tips as to how people actually think, feel and learn; how to really connect and inspire people; different ways to enhance intrinsic-motivation and hence creating more impactful learning experiences.

Such are the important background knowledge most highly successful Trainers, top Coaches and Great Teachers use to create engaging learning experiences.

"I believe, above all else, that I will not be able to elicit a change in any person without the establishment of a relationship. In order to be effective, I want to meet my students where they are and try to work with their beliefs and values." Dr Joel Muro, PhD,

4 times Winner of "Outstanding Professor".
